AMERICAN SHIPS REPORTED FIRED UPON

WILSON TO ACT QUICK IF REPORTS ARE TRUE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—It is announced at the White House that President Wilson has ordered an immediate and vigorous inquiry into the reported firing on the American ships Petrolite and Communipaw by an Austrian submarine. It is plain that the president is determined to act quickly and if reports of the attack are confirmed demands will be sent to Austria for a disavowal of the acts and a pledge that no more American vessels will be attacked. Full reparation will also be demanded for any loss of American lives.

OIL STEAMER REPORTED SAFE

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Rome dispatches stating that the American oil steamer Communipaw has been sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean are contradicted this afternoon by reports that the Communipaw has reached Alexandria, Egypt.

ROME, Dec. 8.—The Communipaw is now reported to have been shelled by an Austrian submarine but escaped without loss of life.

BERSFORD ATTACKS BRITISH POLICIES

LONDON, Dec. 8.—In an attack on the British government, Lord Charles Bersford, former head of the British navy, declared that the present conduct of the war will prolong it indefinitely. The British have no plan, he says, and have not taken advantage of their mastery of the seas. The danger to the nation is increasing hourly, according to the statement of Lord Bersford.

GERMANS REACH GREEK FRONTIER.

ATHENS, Dec. 8.—German troops have reached the Greek frontier, according to a Florna dispatch, which states that the Teuton-Bulgar forces occupied Kenali on the Greek-Serbian border.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—As the result of a conference with Senator Gallinger, republican leader, President Wilson will not countenance a democratic caucus on the preparedness program. "THE FIXER" AT THE CRYSTAL THIS EV'ING

"The Fixer," a merry five-part comedy founded on Willis M. Goodhue's celebrated farce, "Hello Bill," will be presented at the Crystal theatre tonight.

A synopsis of the film follows:

When Bill Fowler decided to wed the wealthy widow, Isabel Dare, of Rye, N. Y., he gave a bachelor dinner. And the dinner degenerated into a quiet game with sugar for dice until constable Zack arrived with sleuths galore and landed them every one safe and sound in the local calaboose.
So Christopher Cutting, Bill's friend,
"The Fixer," put his wonderful brain to work, chloroformed Zack and hustled Bill home in time for the wedding.

Meantime, Isabel's beautiful daughter Dorothy bade her sweetheart Lieutenant Ned Hemmingway, U. S. A., a tearful good-bye, for Ned was going away with Mr. William Fowler, Esq., on a dangerous diplomatic mission to Mexico. Let it here be understood that Mr. William Fowler, Esq., diplomat, and Mr. Bill Fowler, bridegroom, were quite different gentlemen.

But that didn't deter Bill. He stole the identity of Wm. Fowler, Esq., and when Constable Zack arrived Bill told his bride that Zack was a special messenger from the president come to escort him to Mexico. Zack escorted him to the calaboose and The Fixer fixed it again, this time with cash, not chloroform.

One lie begets another. Bill couldn't go home so soon so The Fixer found a scheme. They went to Mexico and sent letters home from Laredo telling of their thrilling adventures and their diplomatic triumphs.

Then they went home and were met at the village station with a laurel wreath and the town band. Bill was a tremendous hero until the real Wm. Fowler arrived. Then there was a desperate duel in which The Fixer fixed Bill's opponent by means of a brick and some other low-down, crafty scheming.

But, unhappily for truth and righteousness, it all ended pleasantly for Bill and his bride. Only The Fixer was forgotten and he got what all good fixers get—nothing.

A Londoner was showing some country relative the sights of London one day recently, and was pointing out a magnificent old residence, built years ago by a famous and rather unscrupulous lawyer of his time. "And," the Londoner was asked, "was he able to build a house like that by his practice?" "Yes," was the reply, "by his practice and his practices."

Always.

Knew What Would Happen.

Monsieur wanted the picture hung to the right; madame wanted it on the left. But monsieur insisted that the servant should hang the picture according to his orders. Consequently Joseph stuck a nail in the wall on the right, but this done, he also went and stuck another on the left. "What is that second nail for?" his master inquired in astonishment. "It's to save me the trouble of fetching the ladder tomorrow when monsieur will have come round to the views of madame."

OUR ARMY RIFLES

There Are None Better Than Those Made at Springfield.

IN UNCLE SAM'S BIG ARSENAL.

Processes by Which a Billet of the Finest Steel Is Turned Into One of the Famous 30 Caliber Weapons—The Manufacture of Small Arms.

Had Longfellow lived until today and visited the Springfield arsenal he would find that the famous old gun racks which inspired his verses have vanished. Also he would discover many other changes. The double tiers of gun racks that the New England bard compared to huge pipe organs are gone save for a small section which has been preserved in the museum. The "burnished arms" with their highly polished barrels are among the things discarded, too, and as for the pattern of the rifle—well, there have been at least a dozen different styles of firearms produced at the famous armory since Longfellow.

Records have it that there have been sixty distinct types of small arms manufactured at Springfield since its establishment during the Revolutionary war. These range from the old "Brown Bess" and Charleville type with their flint locks and smooth bored barrels to the famous "Springfield" of the war between the states period and the still more famous 30 caliber rifle of today, which has been pronounced the most serviceable small arm in the world.

The Springfield armory, with its various foundries, factories, carpenter shops, barracks and storehouses, has cost the United States government in the neighborhood of $96,000,000. This expenditure has enabled the ordnance department to supply its enlisted men with the best type of army rifle, revolver and saber at a very small cost.

Moreover, in periods of pressing need the government has never been hampered by red tape, contracts and special legislation in order to arm its forces. During five wars Springfield has been able to turn out enough arms for immediate service, or at least enough to take care of emergencies, though of course the government has purchased rifles from private firms. During the Spanish war this was necessary because of the quick formation of volunteer troops.

The manufacture of a rifle entails dozens of separate operations and consequently dozens of different kinds of machines are necessary. Indeed, there are ninety-three component parts of a rifle, fifty different operations being required to manufacture the barrel alone. And as for the bayonet, there are twelve separate parts to that simple looking portion of a soldier's equipment.

It is difficult to decide which is the most important, the lock, stock or barrel of a rifle, but from the amount of work involved in all probability the barrel is considered of more consequence by the Springfield gunmakers.

The material from which the barrels are made appears first as short billets of steel. These are placed in a furnace and subjected to intense heat, and when they become deep orange in color they are removed and placed in another furnace where the heat is even greater. By means of long tongs the steel is removed from this heat and put into a peculiar roller equipped with grooves of eleven different sizes. These rollers are operated under tons of pressure, and gradually the billet is formed into a tapering "blank."

In this process the man in charge of the rolling mill passes the billet through eleven different grooves, running it twice through the last groove, thus executing twelve distinct operations before the barrel is even shaped.

The rifling machine is a long, ugly looking affair that moves very slowly. Four ridings are put into the barrel of a gun and six are cut into the short barrels of the automatic revolvers, which are also made at Springfield. Immediately after the rifling the barrel is chambered and sights are put on. Then the glint of polished steel is killed by a process of "browning" the metal.

In the old days the soldier's rifle was polished and buffed until it fairly glittered. Today every metal part is dulled, first because the old time glint reflected the sunlight and made the soldier a better mark for his enemy, and also because the browning process protects the metal from the weather.—Edison Monthly.

Provoking a Husband.

A Mohammedan woman cannot of herself separate from her husband without his consent. He may divorce her with a few words spoken by himself. If she is clever, however, she will take him by surprise at an unguarded moment and contrive to do so something which will make him so angry that before he can exercise sufficient self control to stop himself he has uttered the wished for words.

Clever Chap.

When I had a caller one day my little son came into the room with his cap on. I said, "Why, John, don't you know you should take your cap off when you come into the house?"

Quickly taking it off, he said, "Oh, yes, I know, but I left it on so I could tip it to the lady."—Chicago News.

ORMOND.

ORMOND, Dec. 7.—Burnham Standish Colburn, of Detroit, Mich., has engaged one of the Prettyman beach cottages, and with his family will spend the season in Ormond.

Little Harriet Huntington, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harwood Huntington, was operated on for appendicitis Monday of last week at Springfield, Mass., where the Huntingtons had recently gone for a short stay. Later reports state that the little girl is making good progress toward recovery.

Miss Gertrude Hanson entertained a party of her young friends at whist at the attractive home of her sister, Mrs. L. Ray Clements, on Palmetto street Friday evening last. There were six tables, Miss Margaret Shaw carrying off the ladies' honors and Darrell Carnell the gentlemen's prize. Hot chocolate, sandwiches and dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Margaret Howe, with her housekeeper, Miss Alice Daugherty, has arrived, and is now settled in her cozy home on Granada avenue.

"Casements," one of Dr. Harwood Huntington's beautiful places on the peninsula, has recently been rented to Mrs. George M. Pullman, who with her family will be in Ormond about January 10.

Some of the Ormond Elks with their friends enjoyed the memorial services given by that organization at the Daytona theatre on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Joan Howe, of Port Orange, has returned to her home after a few days spent in Ormond the guest of Mrs. Macon Thornton.

The postponed meeting of the Village Improvement association will be held on Friday, December 10, at the new Memorial building. The program, a talk on Honolulu, will be given by Miss Margaret Howe.

Much regret is expressed upon word being received of the passing away of Frank Graves at his home in New York city Sunday, November 28. Mr. Graves was a brother of Mrs. Ellen L. Borden, and was well-known in Ormond, where accompanied by his wife and daughter, he has spent several winters with Mrs. Borden.

Mrs. J. D. Price entertained at luncheon on Saturday last, Miss Lillian Seabloom, Mrs. Archer Adams, Miss Dampiere, and Mrs. Guy Witham.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Rigby with their son, Lawrence, are spending a week or two in Sanford, where Mr. Rigby has a law business.

The play under the direction of Mrs. Macon Thornton and Mrs. Frank L. Blair, is making good progress and will soon be ready to present to the public.

The Red Cross Christmas seals have come and are now to be found at all the stores, as well as with private individuals.

Among those from Ormond who enjoyed the photo-opera of Carmen at the Daytona theatre Tuesday evening, as presented by Geraldine Farrar, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Blair, who entertained as their guests the Misses Weatherbee and Rolly.

The annual thank-offering meeting of the Union Church Missionary society was held at the home of the president, Mrs. John M. Richmond, on Palmetto street, Thursday afternoon, Mrs. J. D. Price in the chair. A short program was rendered and the envelopes containing the offerings opened. This collection amounted to $31.70. Mrs. Evernden, former state president, was guest of honor and a very pleasant social hour was spent, the hostess serving refreshments. About twenty were present, all of whom felt that a very profitable as well as enjoyable afternoon had been spent.

First Idea of Steam Plowing.
The idea of the use of engines and machinery to plow the ground seems to have originated with David Ramsey and Thomas Wildgoose in 1618, but the motive power they proposed to use is not quite clear. Francis Moore in 1769 first attempted to use the steam engine for this purpose. The history of practical steam plowing dates from the invention of Fowler, assisted by Smith, in 1854.

Named After Inventor.
Macadamised roads are so called from John Loudon Macadam, their inventor.

Pretty Legend of the Red Rose.
The Greeks held that the red rose derived its color from the blood of Venus when she trod on a thorn of the white rose while going to the assistance of the dying Adonis.

BANK AWAITS SURETY BOND

EAST COAST STATE BANK OF DAYTONA BEACH WAITS FOR BOND BEFORE DEPOSIT OF SCHOOL FUNDS.

The only thing holding back the awarding of the contract and the start of work on the new $50,000 school building to be erected on the corner of Earl street and Grandview avenue in Seabreeze is the fact that the East Coast State bank, designated as the depository for the funds accruing from the sale of the school bonds, is awaiting the arrival of its surety bond. Such a bond must necessarily be taken out before the money can be deposited and it was necessary to send to the headquarters of the surety bond company to get a surety bond for $50,000 issued. Local agents are not empowered to make out such large bonds.

The draft for $53,015.55 from Gunter & Sawyer, of Jacksonville, who took the contract for the sale of the bonds, is now in the bank in DeLand but cannot be touched until deposited in the East Coast State bank, the designated depository.

The county school board will probably take first steps toward the awarding of the contract for the building at its first meeting after the satisfactory deposit of Gunter & Sawyer's draft in the local bank. C. R. M. Sheppard, county school superintendent, has asked W. H. Courtney, who sold the school site, to have a bill for the same ready at the next meeting of the county school board.

E. H. Webster, the well-known Seabreeze avenue storekeeper, fully realized that the work of the Daytona Beach fire department accomplished in saving the buildings in that block as well as partly saving the building that was afire. Mr. Webster has generously donated $10 to the fire department to show his appreciation in one way for what the local company has done. The firemen have been earnestly striving to make it known that such helps as this toward making their protective service better and more efficient are only too welcome.

W. O. Williams, the traveling representative of the Jacksonville unions, was in town on business Monday night and stopped at the Seaside Inn for the night.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Preble, of Bath, Maine, were visitors here during the first part of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Preble are traveling over the state, and stopped at the Daytona Beach hotel.

AEROPLANES BEING PREPARED FOR AIR

RUTH LAW WILL MAKE FIRST FLIGHT TODAY IF WEATHER IS CALM ENOUGH FOR NEW MACHINE.

Peninsula residents have learned that Ruth Law has arrived from Hammondsport, N. Y., where she has been spending a part of the summer, and have been scanning the air daily for a sight of one of the aeroplanes.

Miss Law and assistants have been putting up the new Curtiss biplane which was the first machine to get here, and she will go for a flight today if atmospheric conditions permit.

Miss Law will not use her new machine for taking up passengers, but has brought down for that purpose the machine which she used here last year. The new machine will be used more for experimental flights.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wight, of Caribou, Me., who are regular winter tourists here, arrived this week and will stay for the winter in their cozy cottage on Live Oak street in Daytona Beach.

D. D. Rogers is having his lots on the corner of Palmetto avenue and Harvey street cleared off. The lots were somewhat overgrown with weeds and scrub and were ordered cleaned by the council of Daytona Beach.

Employees of the East Florida Telephone company were engaged Tuesday afternoon in carrying away the drums which formerly contained the cables which were recently laid for the telephone wires along Atlantic avenue from Seabreeze to the Clarendon hotel.

Mrs. A. C. Irwin, of Toronto, Canada, arrived Tuesday and is stopping at the Geneva hotel in Seabreeze.

History of the Postage Stamp.

The postage stamp came into use in the United States in 1847, seven years after Great Britain had adopted it. Five and ten-cent stamps were the first American postage stamps, and they carried the heads of Franklin and Washington. Four years later the letter rate was lowered to three cents, and in 1883 to two cents. Before the postage stamp was adopted, the postal charges were more moderate in the United States than in England. Our rates were six cents for 30 miles or less; 12½ cents up to 150 miles; 18½ cents up to 400 miles, and 25 cents for every distance over that. Hill, the discoverer of postage stamps, was knighted and received a gift of $45,000, raised by public subscription.

Saving Mineral Waste.

Up till quite recent times the loss of tin at the Welsh mines has been nearly ten per cent of the total amount of the metal mined. Now, by the use of electrical apparatus, the loss has been lowered to one per cent. This is a fair sample of the reform now going on in all mining operations. Ores once thrown away are now used, and old dumps are being worked at a profit sometimes not much less than was made by the original owners of the mine. The silver mines of Attica were worked by slave labor more than twenty-five centuries ago and were thought exhausted, but in recent times the ancient waste has been run through modern processes and made to pay.

Storms Puzzle Astronomers.

The source of "magnetic storms" in some measure is yet problematic, notwithstanding long years of observation by the most devoted astronomers. One theory is that a positive electricity is generated from tropical water surfaces and that the waves are swept north to the magnetic poles, there to meet negative streams which produce these phenomena. It has been demonstrated that this luminous magnetic matter can only manifest itself in very rare atmospheres, and similar phenomena have really been produced in glass vessels from which the air has been practically exhausted.

Peter the Great.

"What Alfred the Great is to early Britain, that Peter the Great, in his crude way, is to Russia. If ever a race of people found adequate expression in one person, that race was the Slavic race in their great czar. As an acorn enfolds an oak, the type of a great forest, so Peter the Great enfolds the Russian people. Into him they have flowed from the twilight of time, and from him they have gone out to the ends of the earth. And this was one of his dreams, that his country might have ample boundaries."—From "The World Storm—and Beyond," by Edwin Davies Schoonmaker.

DAYTONA BEACH OFFICERS WATCHING FOR SPEEDERS

A great deal of complaint has reached the ears of the Daytona Beach authorities about autos going at top speed along the south part of Peninsula drive between First and Silver Beach avenues. This piece of road is quite broad and in good condition and the temptation invariably comes to the motorist to open the throttle farther than the law allows on this stretch.

The lower part of Peninsula drive is generally known to be free from officers of the law, but in the future will be more carefully guarded than any other thoroughfare in Daytona Beach. Too many complaints have been received from residents in that section for fast driving to be further countenanced, and for that reason authorities will be on the watch for cars moving over too much ground per minute.

Workmen were busy all day Tuesday in digging up the water pipes belonging to the old Co-operative water works company along Hollywood avenue. These mains are being removed all over the town by C. C. Smith, manager of the former Co-operative company.

The lots on Peninsula drive belonging to J. H. Haight between Harvey street and Fifth avenue are being cleaned of weeds and scrub palmetto after the request of the town council.

Never Saw a Woman Do It.

"I've seen millions, I don't know but billions, of men and boys stop to compare their watches by the chronometers in jewelers' windows," said a man who thinks his watch is always correct, and who likes himself to so compare it, "but I never saw a woman do that. Did you?"

Buffalo Cross Roads.

Buffalo Cross Roads, a village four and a half miles from Lewisburg, Union county, Pennsylvania, is so named, according to historians, because the last buffalo killed in the great Buffalo valley of Union county, was shot near the place. The skull of this beast, a large bull, was hung on a pole at a point where public highways crossed, hence the name. This buffalo was killed, it is asserted, in the early part of 1800. This village of Buffalo Cross Roads was the home of a tanner by the name of Chamberlain, who is said to have been the first person in the United States to start the canning of fruit for commercial purposes. Mr. Chamberlain began his fruit preserving as an experiment for his own use. The products were pleasing to the taste, and he made shipments of goods to New York city, where a demand soon arose for all the surplus fruits he was able to supply.

Just a Suggestion.

"Now, my men," said the employer, "I have engaged Mr. Pushem to systematize the work of the plant. By his methods we expect to increase the efficiency of each department fully fifty per cent. Have any of you a suggestion as to where Mr. Pushem should begin?" "If it's efficiency you're after, sir," suggested a horny-handed son of toil, "you might test this man Pushem on your son, who is keeping the newspaper reporters busy describing his rapid advancement from one department to another, while he gains a thorough actual working knowledge of the business."

Easier to Spell.

Young Arthur, the pride of the family, had been attending school all of six weeks, and his devoted parent thought it was high time he should find out how things were running. So he asked, one afternoon: "And what did my little son learn about this morning?" "Oh, a mouse, Miss Wilcox told us all about mice." "That's the boy, now, how do you spell mouse?" It was then that Arthur gave promise of being an artful dodger. He paused meditatively for a moment, then said: "Father, I guess I was wrong. It wasn't a mouse teacher was telling us about. It was a rat."

Truly a Wonder.

Pensively Patrick gazed into the pigsty and fixed his eye and knitted his brow on the fat little object that snugly snorted to itself. "Mm!" he muttered, as shifting into a different position he viewed the piglet from another angle. Along came Betty O'Hoye, but not even her pretty face could lure Patrick from his contemplations. "An' how's the pig, Pat?" she asked, slightly piqued by his indifference. "He's a livin' wonder!" came the emphatic answer. "Sure, an' how's that, Patrick?" inquired Betty, drawing nearer the sty. "Bejabbers," exclaimed the contemplative one, "he's just guzzled two half-pails of milk, and then I put him in the pail and he didn't half fill it!"

Tear Down—Build Up.

The old gardener was on his knees on the lawn, digging up dandelions. As he drew each long, slender root from the soil, he dropped something into the hole which it had left. "What are you doing?" said I. "Droppin' in grass seed," he answered. "I would be a shame, wouldn't it," he added, holding up a brilliant yellow blossom, "to pull up such a purty thing as this if you didn't plant somethin' better in its place?" Here is a lesson for the mother. If she must refuse some darling wish, or take away some hurtful treasure, let her not leave the little heart of the child torn and empty, but rather fill the void with "something better."—Mother's Magazine.

Well to Know When to Stop.

The fellow who talks too much is usually a little off balance. It may be that he has nothing particular to say and so keeps talking. He makes up in words what he lacks in ideas. If you want to be a good talker you must have thoughts. The more broad and varied your knowledge the better you are qualified to talk. The more you have in your head the less you are likely to parade with your tongue. Make yourself a factor in your sphere and folks will want you to talk. Become an authority and folks will pay you to talk. Monopolize conversation with mere words and you become a joke. Learn to be a talker but shun talkativeness.

Real Cause of Destruction.

The San Francisco earthquake of April 18, 1906, had many premonitions, beginning on the coast of British Columbia, and quakes extending to far South America. All parts of that immense coast have germs of earthquakes which may culminate at any time in tremendous convulsions. Everyone will remember, however, that the great destruction in San Francisco was not the direct result of the earthquake, but of the incidental conflagration which followed.

The "SILENT SMITH"

—Model 8 shows what should now be expected of a typewriter.

Bull Bearing; Long Wearing

The success of the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriters has been due to the fact that the wants of the user have dictated its construction. The user has decided in favor of certain improvements now incorporated in Model 8. Among them are:

Silence of Operation—The most silent running efficient typewriter ever placed on the market. Absolute silence has been very nearly attained.

Decimal Tabulator—A help in billing and tabulating. There is no extra charge for this convenience.

Variable Line Spacer—Enables the operator to start on a given line and space from point of starting; also to write on ruled lines whose spacing varies from typewriter spacing. A great help in card work.

Faster Ribbon Feed—Insures new place of impact for each typeface.

Choice of Carriage Return—Upon special order the new left hand carriage return will be furnished in place of the right hand return.

All the important features of previous models have been retained—ball bearing carriage, typebars and capital shift, back spacer, key-controlled ribbon, removable platen, protected type, flexible paper feed and automatic ribbon reverse.

Write for New Catalog of Model 8. It will explain why the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter is a synonym for superior service.

RUBBER!

See the Girl in the Tire?

From a rubber beginning the present Kelly-Springfield industry has grown, and while the output has increased year by year, the tire has only made its mark in the world's history.

An electric tractor is used by the Pennsylvania Railroad company to shift cars in the streets of Jersey City. On one of the wheels is a Kelly-Springfield sectional block tire which has seen twenty-two months continual service, during which period three other block type of tires of different makes were worn out; these were gradually replaced by Kelly-Springfield blocks, until now all four wheels are equipped.

PRINCE GEORGE HOTEL OPENS FOR SEASON

The Prince George hotel opened this morning for its eighth season under the capable and experienced management of the proprietors, W. W. Hilyard and A. O. Holroyd, who have made it one of the most popular hostleries of Daytona as it is also one of the largest.

The Prince George opens with quite a number of guests and the bookings for later accommodations are very gratifying. Messrs. Hilyard and Holroyd are sanguine of a more than usually good season and have made their plans accordingly.

Laughter Analyzed.
Laughter is a sign of high development. The nearer one is to the animal, the less one laughs. The more highly developed we become, the more do we perceive humor. For laughter, it must be remembered, is a sign that an emotion has suddenly been set free. It is like a touch on the trigger of a gun, the gun being self-restraint.

Pupil of "Best Teacher."
"Cheer up, old boy," advised the married man. "You know 'tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." "Yes," agreed the rejected suitor, jingling a bunch of keys in his pocket. "better for the florist, the confectioner, the messenger boy, the restaurant waiter, the taxicabman, the theatrical magnate and the jeweler."

See the Girl in the Tire?

From a modest beginning the present Kelly-Springfield industry was developed, and while the output has increased over a thousand fold, the tires are still made by hand in the same old careful way.

An electric tractor is used by the Pennsylvania Railroad company to shift cars in the streets of Jersey City. On one of the wheels is a Kelly-Springfield sectional block tire which has seen twenty-two months continual service, during which period three other block type of tires of different makes were worn out; these were gradually replaced by Kelly-Springfield blocks, until now all four wheels are equipped.

Something Must Be Done This Winter

Copyright, 1915, by J. Keeley.

EVERY year the little green bayberry candles are sent as luck bringing gifts to an even greater extent than during the past few holiday seasons. The reason for this is that the people who received them the past year or two—and who did not?—thought that they really did seem to bring them good fortune; hence this increasingly rapid growth of the candle's popularity as a substitute for the conventional Christmas card or as constituting in itself an unpretentious little gift symbolizing every good wish.

But, while a great many people both send and receive bayberry candles as gifts, there are but few who know whence they come or why the luck superstition is inseparable from them.

The candles, or "dips," as they were first called, are the product of a revived industry started a few years ago in the old Massachusetts towns of Deerfield and Hingham and in the kitchens of the Cape Cod people, all of them using the old pewter or tin molds that have descended in the families from colonial times. Old southern villages have not as yet realized the opportunity offered its women in this revived industry, although the bayberry candles were made by the early settlers in all the coast colonies where the berries grew, never being found inland.

As to the origin of the good luck idea, we seek it in vain among colonial chronicles as applied to the candle itself. Yet from times far earlier the bay tree and the laurel were considered sacred to good fortune, and it is from this immemorial belief that we must trace the present day faith in the virtues of the bayberry candle.

The bay is a species of laurel, and as poets and victors were crowned with the laurel or the bay, wishing them long life and happiness, so is the same wish conveyed in the bestowal of a candle made of the waxen berries borne by the sacred tree.

Bayberry dips are also made as well as the molded candles. These dips are smaller and less even in shape and show us how candles were made by repeatedly dipping the wicks in the melted wax of the bayberries and drying each layer till the dip was of proper size. That was before molds were introduced, early in the eighteenth century.

To accompany a bayberry candle one should send in the little box in which it is daintily wrapped a card on which is printed, in red and green lettering, the legend:

ON CHRISTMAS EVE.

A bayberry candle burnt to the socket
Brings luck to the house.
Food to the larder
And gold to the pocket.

When these cards are not to be found the luck rime may be written on the back of one's visiting card and wrapped with a candle, but in that case it must not be forgotten that the inclosure of writing necessitates extra postage.

Their color, a soft olive green, blends beautifully with other Christmas decorations, and they burn with a steady flame, emitting a delightfully pungent fragrance, and they are consumed evenly all around without making unsightly gutters or ridges of wax down the sides as ordinary candles do.

From New England comes the tradition that if lovers separated by distance each lights a bayberry candle in honor of the other at the same hour the aroma or incense arising from the burning wick will drift in the direction of the absent one; hence the candles make a strong appeal to young people of romantic temperament.

A candle must be presented to you, not bought by yourself, in order to insure good luck, and you must not light your own; that must be done for you by some other person, not necessarily the donor.

Christmas eve is the time for burning, either at dinner or later, and to follow out the old idea of the laurels and the bays to the victor a candle should surely be bestowed on the relative or friend who has recently achieved some success or won a distinction.—Philadelphia Press.

They brought three cars with them, driving down from Jacksonville, accompanied also by Col. E. P. Woodbury, manager of the Ridgewood hotel. Mr. Johns has two more cars in Jacksonville and also several here for use in his livery business.

Explaining Combustion.

When you blow upon glowing embers you increase the supply of oxygen and this burns into flame. The same would be true of blowing upon flame were it not for the wind dispersing the gaseous particles of the fuel, so that those which are burning are unable to impart their heat to those yet unburned. Therefore, as soon as these are burned out, which is almost instantaneously, combustion is discontinued and the flame disappears.

Feeding Plants.

Do you ever think of inviting your plants to dinner? An expert in plant life who took a large number of sundew plants and supplied half of them with nitrogenous food in the form of roast beef arrived at the following facts: Of the plants that he fed, 69 per cent more survived than of the same number that were not fed in this way; their stems weighed 41 per cent more, they excelled the starved plants in the number of their seeds by 141 per cent, and in the aggregate weight of their seeds by 279 per cent. Other scientists who have fed these plants with aphides of similar small insects have secured like results.

Unwelcome Legacy From Rome.

The Egyptians were the first to divide the day and night into 24 equal parts. They numbered the hours one to twenty-four. The Romans began their day at sunrise, and numbering the hours to sunset one to twelve, and numbering them from sunset to sunrise also one to twelve. Our a. m. and p. m. is a part of the burdensome legacy inherited from them. The hours constituting their day and night were of unequal and constantly varying lengths. In the course of time they made a change to our present system, and had they adopted the Egyptian method they would have conferred inestimable benefit upon mankind.—Scientific American.

The experienced letter opener can detect the imitation personal letter at the first glance at the printed type-writing; to forestall the usual fate of such a letter a Philadelphia firm frankly begins its imitation letter thus: "This is not a typewritten letter, but far better, because it has taken hours of experience of expensive talent to write the information it contains, impossible in any letter dictated on the spur of the moment."

Sneeze Affects Entire Body.

Will a bright light cause you to sneeze? It does some people, just as do dust, flower pollen and cold. Dust and pollen cause irritation in the nostrils and the sneeze is nature's way of stopping the irritation, by violently removing the irritant. The sneeze from cold, however, is a different process on the part of mother nature. While the dust or pollen sneeze is confined to the nose, the cold sneeze is an act of the entire body and the nose is simply the scene of the explosion. When the body is unduly cold, it makes a spasmodic effort to warm the system and thus jerks up every muscle. The act culminates in the sneeze.

Well to Avoid Loquacity.

The wise man knows just when to talk and when to be quiet. Many kinds of businesses are out of reach of the man who talks too much. A certain agent for a corporation was sent out a few years ago to get options on several tracts of land. He got along swimmingly until an inquisitive old chap got after him. The old fellow was something of a psychologist and at once began to pour flattery upon the victim. The fellow couldn't stand it. He just had to have his say and began telling the shrewd old fellow about himself and his importance. Against his better judgment he talked too much.

The Sanitary Removable Front of the NEW ROLL DOOR HOOSIER

Like most wonderful inventions, this new Kitchen Cabinet is so simple that you will wonder why no one discovered it before.

Yet, makers have experimented for ten years to produce it. Hoosier triumphs again with the only kitchen cabinet that has roll doors which are sanitary and removable.

NO PARTITIONS

Note the entire absence of cubby holes or dirt breeding pockets. As on all Hoosier Cabinets the space of the cupboard is free of partitions. The doors slide in an ingeniously contrived channel which is open and easy to clean. A simple motion removes the doors and a whisk broom or cloth dusts out the channel completely. You will recognize all the other features that make the Hoosier Cabinet famous.

THIS WEEK FOR $1 CASH WOMEN

If you are tired out at night; if your back aches; if you never get through; if you want system in your kitchen, get a Hoosier on trial tomorrow and see the difference. The Hoosier will amaze you with its saving of time, labor and steps in a single day!

MEN

If your wife is not strong, ask your doctor what standing all day in the kitchen means. If you like good meals on time; if you'd rather have your wife with her family in the evening instead of devoting the whole evening to clearing up the supper dishes—buy her a Hoosier—and do it NOW.

A DOLLAR A WEEK

Quickly pays for it, and it saves its price over and over every year.

UNIQUE SAVINGS PLAN OF MERCHANTS BANK

Realizing the benefits its customers would derive from such a plan, the Merchants bank early in the year installed what is known as the Christmas Savings club.

Today they are mailing checks to the various members of the club for the savings they have accumulated, including in the amount the interest earned on their deposits and in this way providing them with the much-needed spending money for Christmas.

This plan has worked so well during the present year that the Merchants bank is now starting another series of clubs and deposits may be made at once for next Christmas.

The clubs have been popular with persons of all ages, many children having the smaller books which call for an initial payment of only two cents, this payment increasing two cents each week.

If you call at the Merchants bank the officers will be glad to explain the various plans of this savings club.

Great Moment in History.

Napoleon Bonaparte had just picked up the crown of France out of the gutter. "Well, I declare," he ejaculated as he polished it off on his coat sleeve. "Pere's richness! I've always felt that the man who could turn last year's silk hat into a wastebasket was something of a genius; but I'll have him beaten to a frazzle, as another great soldier will observe in a hundred years or so. I'll turn this old tile into a telephone, and address the French people through it." Whereupon he placed the bauble upon his head, and in time even as he had intimated, it became the recognized central office for all the switchboards of Europe.

Women Farmers.

The success of women in farming is no longer an experiment, for we can point to many brilliant examples of former clerks, schoolteachers, stenographers, lawyers and women of leisure who are now earning a competence, many on the road to wealth, by reason of their contract with the soil. If a woman will but meet the common-sense requirements that are demanded by the best gardeners and give prompt attention to the market end of the business there is no reason why she may not earn a comfortable living on even a few acres of land.

FIRST OF SERIES OF SOCIAL AFTERNOONS

The first of a series of social afternoons which are to be given by the Palmetto club for the benefit of the building fund was enjoyed in the tea room of the clubhouse on Orange avenue Tuesday afternoon and consisted of a tea and short program of entertainment. There were three tables for tea, presided over by Mrs. M. L. Stanley and Mrs. S. C. Archibald. Bouquets of roses were used as centerpieces on the tables and the tea room was tastefully decorated with sprigs of bright red holly berries. The program included selections from grand opera on a Victrola, a reading by Robert Doty, who responded to an encore, and two vocal solos by Mrs. Geo. A. Brown. The program was in charge of Mrs. F. J. Niver and Mrs. Roland E. Stevens. The entertainment provided a pleasant afternoon for those attending and netted $14 for the building fund.

COL. E. P. WOODBURY HERE FOR SEASON

Col. E. P. Woodbury, manager of the Ridgewood hotel, arrived Tuesday evening from Burlington, Vt., to prepare for the opening of the hotel on Monday, January 3. Col. Woodbury drove through from Jacksonville by automobile in company with N. A. Johns, who will again conduct a livery for the Ridgewood this season, and was the guest overnight of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Rawlings at their home on South Beach street. Mrs. Woodbury and Miss Elsa P. Woodbury will join the colonel here the day before Christmas and Murray C. Woodbury, who is attending the Florida Military academy in Jacksonville, will also be with them for the holidays.

Speaking of the prospects for the approaching season Col. Woodbury said that all indications pointed to a much better season than last year and it might prove to be an exceptionally good one, owing to the greatly improved condition of business in the North.

CONTINUE WAR TAXES RECOMMENDS M'ADOO

PRINCIPAL POINTS IN McADOO'S ANNUAL REPORT.

"Our financial resources are the greatest in our history and our banking system * * * is now the strongest in the world."

Total appropriations for fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, should be $908,765,929, or $167,831,401 more than the previous year.

The secretary recommends new taxes instead of a bond issue to pay for the expected deficiency due to defense preparations.

Our stock of gold coin and bullion is $2,198,113,762, the largest amount ever held by any nation.

"There are, without doubt, wholesale evasions of the income tax law."

Skyscraper postoffices are recommended, as more economical than the "monumental type."

Washington, Dec. 3.—"The financial situation of this country has never been so strong and so favorable as now," says Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo in his annual report to the speaker of the house of representatives, which was submitted to congress today. "Our financial resources are the greatest in our history and our banking system, through the creation and operation of the federal reserve system, is now the strongest in the world."

The secretary asserts that the financial condition of the treasury is so strong that, even though no additional revenue raising measures be put into effect, there will be a balance in the general fund on June 30, 1916, of $32,644,605. Should the war tax, which expires December 31, 1915, be re-enacted and should the one cent a pound duty on sugar, which under present law will not be collected after May 1, 1916, be continued, the net balance in the general fund on June 30, 1916, will stand at $88,644,605. Should the $25,000,000 expenditure to be made on the Panama canal be financed by the sale of bonds as provided by law, the net balance of June 30, 1916, would be $76,644,605, according to the secretary.

A recapitulation of the finances shows total ordinary receipts of the treasury for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, of $697,910,827, and total ordinary disbursements of $731,399,759, giving a deficiency for the year of $33,488,931. This is merely a deficiency for the year and does not represent the treasury as behind that much, for it has not yet used up what it commenced the year with.

The secretary estimates that total appropriations for the government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917, should be $908,765,929, an increase over the 1916 appropriations of $167,831,401.

The outlook for the fiscal year 1917, which will begin next July, is not so bright, Mr. McAdoo tells the congress.

In his report Secretary McAdoo declares that a bond issue is inadvisable and says that additional revenue may be raised by maintaining the present war tax and the sugar duty; by increasing the income tax and by greater care in collections of all taxes. The secretary says that it is as poor policy for a government to subsidize on the proceeds of bond sales as for an individual to live on borrowed money. Let the government procure money through taxation that it need not repay, says Mr. McAdoo.

In view of this attitude of the secretary and the general feeling among administration leaders that retention of the war tax and the sugar duty is inevitable, it is believed here that the government will not be deprived of these sources of revenue, and this being the case, Mr. McAdoo says, an expenditure of $93,800,000 on the preparedness program will roll up a deficiency of $50,806,394 by June 30, 1917, the end of the 1917 fiscal year. To meet this deficiency, Mr. McAdoo would increase the internal revenue. He figures that the total increase in revenues needed is $112,806,394, provided $25,000,000 worth of Panama canal bonds are not sold. If the issue should be made, that amount would be subtracted from the amount of additional revenue required.

Mr. McAdoo's suggestions for raising this additional revenue are to: Increase the corporation and personal income taxes by providing higher rates and, in the case of the personal income tax, reducing the $3,000 exemption for single persons and $4,000 exemption for married folk to $2,000 and $3,000 respectively.

Increase the taxes on gasoline, crude and refined oils, horsepower of automobiles and other internal combustion engines and "various other things where collection could be made at the source." Mr. McAdoo also says that, following the European war, a flood of imports may be expected which will increase customs duties.

JUNIOR HUMANE AND AUDUDON SOCIETIES

DOUBLE ORGANIZATION WILL BE COVERED BY THE JUNIOR HUMANE SOCIETY WHICH ORGANIZED MONDAY.

The organization of a Junior Humane society in this city was completed at the public school building Monday afternoon by the election of the vice presidents, one from each grade.

The first meeting for organization was held on the first day of the present month and at that time Miss Sidney Fromberger was elected president; William Perry, eighth grade, first vice president and Clarence Nash secretary and treasurer.

The vice presidents elected Monday are as follows: Seventh grade, Banta Hilyard; sixth grade, Gordon Ray; fifth grade, Scheffel Wright, Jr.; fourth grade, Miss Jean Frances Conrad; third grade, Muriel Rightmire; second grade, Ada Campbell; first grade, Hattie Smith.

Junior Audubon society will be included or covered by the work of the Junior Humane society in order to avoid the double organization. The membership in each society is ten cents a year. The Humane society will, where it is necessary, pay the admission or membership fee for children wishing to join the Junior Humane society and a similar arrangement has been made as regards the Junior Audubon society. The Junior Humane starts out with a dozen or more members.

This Junior Humane society and Audubon society are excellent organizations in which to interest the young people and they should have the encouragement and assistance of parents and other members of the family and friends generally of these two great movements which are similar in their objects.

Hebrew or Jew?

The name "Jew" was used originally to denote one belonging to the tribe of Judah. After the return from the Babylonian captivity any member of the new state was called a Jew. The name "Hebrew" in its widest sense includes any member of the northern branch of Semites, including the Israelites, Ammonites, Moabites, etc. It is used, however, specifically to denote an Israelite.

Field for Ambition.

"Yes, father," he said to old Mr. Hayseed, "I've graduated, and my education is complete. I s'pose I know about everything. Now I must choose a field where my abilities can be used to the best advantage. I want a large field where I will have plenty of room." "Son," replied the old man, "there is the ten-acre cornfield, and you kin have it all to yourself."

A DINNER IN JAPAN

Troubles of a Hungry Man Not to the Manner Born.

SQUATTING AT THE TABLE.

It Tried the Patience and the Muscles of the Stranger in a Strange Land, but From an Epicurean Standpoint
the Worst Was Yet to Come.

Describing an amusing experience in Japan, Homer Croy in Leslie's Weekly tells how, after arriving by train in an interior town, in his efforts to find a hotel, he tried to break into a bank. Realizing his mistake, he finally, by use of the sign language, was directed to a real hotel, where, after removing his shoes, he entered. Then:

What interested me most was something to eat, and opening my mouth to its fullest I pointed in. They motioned me to follow upstairs, but I held back, showing that I wanted the dining room, not the bedroom. Seeing a door, which I thought must be the dining room, I pushed it open, but it was the kitchen; so, thinking that they knew more about things than I did, I let them lead me upstairs. When the girl pushed back the sliding doors my heart crawled down another step, for there was only one piece of furniture in the room, a seat that looked like a two legged milk stool covered with carpet. There wasn't a single chair in the room and no place to hang my hat or coat, nothing except a bare room with a heavy matting on the floor and one of my toes brazenly peeping through my stocking.

I started to sit down on the milk stool, but it squirted out from under me, while the servant girl made no effort to hide her laughter. Dropping down on the floor, she showed me how to use the milk stool by sitting on it, like a picture before Pompeii.

She took my hat and coat, and I wondered where she was going to hang them, for there wasn't a single nail or hook in the room. Carrying them over to the wall, she pushed back a small sliding door and placed them on a shelf and brought me back a kimono. She motioned for me to get into it and started down the hall. I got out of my clothes and was just slipping into the kimono when I heard her coming. I called to her to stop, but she did not understand, so I wrapped the kimono around me the best way I could and tried to keep it together, for there were no buttons on it.

On the floor she placed a table and on it a pot of tea. The table was just barely a foot high, and there was no milk or sugar for the tea, for these things spoil tea to a Japanese. Then she came with a plate of fish, a bowl of rice and a little square box with a bamboo tube in it and a bowl. In the bowl was a glow of charcoal. Soon I puzzled out that this was for lighting cigarettes and the bamboo for dropping the butts into. The first thing a Japanese thinks of is tea, and the next is cigarettes.

I started to draw up to the table, but I could not find a place for my knees. They wouldn't let me get near enough the table to carry out my designs on the fish. Seeing my trouble, the girl dropped down to show me how. She turned her feet back, with her toes pointing straight behind her, and sat down, her face in one direction and her toes in another. It looked easy, but it brought me up with a short breath. No European can sit in such an attitude.

Putting one leg under the table, with one bare knee glistening on the side, I bent over the table to proceed with the eating, but here I ran up against a snag. All I had to eat with was chopsticks. Weaving them through my fingers, I tried to break off a piece from the slab of fish, but it wouldn't break. I turned it over, hoping to spring it, but with my wabbling sticks I could only grieve the plate. Openly the girl laughed. It was better than a picture show to her. She showed me how it should be done—by lifting the whole fish with the sticks and taking bites as if it were a piece of bread.

The next dish was something that puzzled me. In a round wooden dish about the size of the bowl that used to come in a package of oatmeal were white squares of meat in hot water. I worked out a piece and ate it and asked her through signs what it was. She threw out enough for a paragraph, but that did not bring me light. I asked her again, and away she went and came back with a book and, coming up close, pointed to the picture of a horse. I had been eating horse meat. Something in me began to sink, leaving me weak and lumpy. Although she brought me two or three more things to eat, I waved them aside. My appetite for the time had been appeased.

John Muir's Great Wealth.

John Muir, who has left a rich legacy to his countrymen, like so many thousands of writers and American idealists, was poor. He was a close friend of Mr. E. H. Harriman, the multimillionaire railroad king. One day Mr. Muir surprised his wealthy friend by saying, "Harriman, you know I am a richer man than you are?"

"Yes?" said Harriman, with a question in his tone.

"Because," continued Muir, "I have all the money I want, and you haven't."—From "American Ideals" by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper.

A TOUCH OF GOLD.

Its Magic Restored to Its Pedestal His Tottering Dignity.

One day during his prosperous "Adonis" time in London Henry E. Dixey was walking in the Strand when he met an American actor. He belonged to the order of self satisfied persons who live to give out the impression that the man they deign to speak to is specially singled out by an indulgent providence for high favor. This particular haughty one had obviously made acquaintance with misery. His clothes were seedy, and there were written all over him the signs of pressing want.

"Hello, old man, how are you getting on?" was the Dixey hail.

"Very well, I thank you, sir," replied the unbending one.

"Doing anything just now?" queried Dixey.

"Well, no, I may candidly say I'm not. These plebeian hounds over here do not estimate art at its proper value, and I have refused, in deference to my dignity, to accept anything less than I consider my services worth. I may be out of an engagement temporarily, but, thank heaven, I have not degraded myself by taking any paltry advances, and I still consider myself a gentleman."

Then he added, in a lower and less aggressive tone. "But I most candidly own that the pangs of hunger may soon make me forget my professional dignity, as I have not had a mouthful to eat in two days."

"For heaven's sake," exclaimed the pitying Dixey, "take this and get something to eat!" And he laid in the starving man's hand a sovereign.

With the touch of gold in his consciousness the recipient's face underwent a magical change. Halting a passing cab, he turned to Dixey and said: "Thanks, old fellow. I'll return this in a couple of days. Cabby, drive me to the Cafe Royal."

And away he went to spend that precious sovereign at a single throw. His pride as a gentleman must not be allowed to suffer.—Detroit Free Press.

IMPOLITE OFFICIALS.

They Sometimes Get a Jolt, as One of Them Did in Paris.

It would appear that the public servant, no matter how small his position or humble his function, is much the same person in France as in this country, manifesting much the same lack of courtesy as that which meets us so often here.

Recently in one of the departments of a Parisian mayoralty, toward mid day, a little old employee was about to begin munching a bunch of carrots. Some one rapped at the door. No response from the little employee.

The person who had rapped entered. "Monsieur," he began.

"Come back at 2 o'clock," growled the little employee, as he continued to gnaw away at the vegetables.

"But—" "No buts about it. Come back at 2 o'clock."

"I am the new chief of the bureau," said the visitor.

At once the little employee jumped up, trying to hide the bunch of carrots behind his back, as he bowed deeply to the visitor.

"Go before me," said the chief, "and show me, if you please, to my bureau."

The little employee was greatly embarrassed by his carrots. He did not know where to put them.

The chief took pity on him. "My friend," he said, "put down your carrots. There is no shame in eating vegetables. But that respectable occupation should not prevent you from giving a gracious welcome to the public. Let this serve as a lesson to you."—Indianapolis News.

Mathematical Prizes.

The Academy of Sciences of Goettingen, Germany, holds $21,000 to be awarded to whomsoever can furnish a general proof of Fermat's theorem, which is to the effect that in the equation $x^n + y^n = z^n$ if n stands for an integer (whole number) greater than 2 no integral values can be found for x , y and z . This must be furnished before Sept. 1, 2007.

The French Academy of Sciences awards every five years the Jean Reynaud prize of $53,200 for the best original work in mathematics.—Scientific American.

Mark Twain's Advice.

Mark Twain was a firm believer in the higher education of woman, but Hartford still remembers a speech he made one June to a platform of Hartford girl graduates.

This speech, a humorous attack on the college girl, ended:

"Go forth. Fall in love. Marry. Set up housekeeping. And then, when your husband wants a shirt ironed, send out for a gridiron to do it with."

Pride of Pedigree.

"Who was that you just spoke to?" "Can't think of his name just now, but he is a descendant of one of the old families."

"He hasn't got over it yet?" "My boy, they never do."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Worth Cultivating.

"I think fortune is beginning to smile on me a little." "Keep up the flirtation," advised the friend.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MINSTRELS READY FOR ENTERTAINMENT

REHEARSALS SHOW GENERAL
PROFICIENCY AND PROMISE
THE BEST ENTERTAINMENT
PRODUCED BY LOCALS.

The Gem City minstrels, under the direction of their experienced manager, W. F. Thomason, are now ready to present their eleventh annual performance which will be given at the New Daytona theatre on the night of Friday, December 17, at 8:30 o'clock. Those who have been watching the rehearsals declare that the coming performance will by far surpass anything ever attempted here in the way of minstrelsy and the setting for the opening is beyond doubt the most elaborate that has ever been staged in the New Daytona theatre. This opening setting was painted by Karl Van Kost, the scenic artist, late of New York, who is an artist in his line, and this setting is the last word for artistic beauty.

The coon songs and ballads which will be sung by the Gem City minstrels have been procured from the great metropolis; everything new and up-to-the-minute. Speaking of the black-face comedians, the Gem City minstrels have without doubt some of the best talent in or out of the professional business and Scheffell Wright, the well-known traveling man, who has been playing with the Gem City minstrels since they were first organized, is recognized throughout the state as the cleverest black-face in amateur circles. To hear him sing reminds you of the old plantation days. Scheffell Wright, Jr., will also take part.

Al. J. Malby, a local real estate man, has the distinction of playing opposite Mr. Wright, and has played with the Gem City minstrels in a number of seasons. He also is a clever black-face and keeps things lively at his end of the line. Mr. Malby is an imitator of that famous colored comedian, Bert Williams, of the Ziegfeld Follies, and as a comedian he is hard to beat.

H. C. F. Dohm, a well-known local man and coon shouter, who made a great hit in the Elks' minstrels last season, is singing Ruth Royce's latest success and he is beyond question one of the best coon shouters in amateur minstrels.

C. P. Miller, the "small boy with the small voice," who is on a par with that famous comedian, 'Lasses White' is singing one of the cleverest coon songs that has ever been written. Miller's a treat.

W. J. McDonald, the popular tenor, has the sweetest voice this side of the Mason and Dixon line. Just hear him and you will agree.

W. B. Shaw, manager of a local garage, is in a class by himself when it comes to singing those Irish melodies and the songs that made Harry Lauder.

L. J. Cowan, assistant postmaster, is a lyric tenor who is singing with the Gem City minstrels again this season. He is good to hear.

E. J. Mills, baritone, and a good one, is also with the minstrels again this season.

R. L. Evernden, who possesses an excellent bass voice and knows how to handle it, is also appearing in the Gem City minstrels on this occasion.

Otis Pellecier, the well-known tenor, is of course in the minstrels and will fill his usual position of interlocutor which he does with ease and grace.

A. E. Donnelly, the popular violinist, will lend his excellent talent to the making of the show and is a strong drawing card.

And then there is the Crystal orchestra of ten pieces and a splendid musical organization.

All this and more may be seen at the New Daytona theatre on the evening of Friday, December 17, and tickets will be on sale at Hankins' drug store, where Volusia meets Beach.

Lucky Sparrow.

An Irishman tried to shoot a sparrow with a very old musket. He fired. The bird, with a chirp or two, flew away unconcerned in the foreground, and Pat was swiftly laid on his back. Picking himself up and shaking his fist at the bird, he exclaimed: "Be jabbers, ye wouldn't 'a' chirruped if ye'd been at this end of the gun."

New Medical Term.

"Homograde" is the latest addition to the confusion of thermometers. It is designed for the physician, and gives variations from the normal body temperature in figures that can be instantly read and interpreted. With zero at the freezing point, 100 degrees is the accepted normal blood heat, and 270 degrees is the boiling point of water.

Trustful Humanity.

Taken acutely ill in the midst of a long journey, we accept the ministrations of a fellow traveler whom we have never seen before, but who says that he is a physician. Even the prescription given us by our family doctor is liable to be filled by an unknown compounding clerk, yet we swallow unquestionably whatever he hands us in bottle or box. We hail a passing cab to take us to our destination in the middle of the night, feeling no alarm lest the driver be in league with a gang of footpads. We send our cash deposit to the bank by the hand of a messenger concerning whose virtues we have no guarantee, beyond the fact that thus far we have not found him light fingered. We add our names to this and that petition on the say so of some one who may or may not, for all we are aware, have an ulterior and illegitimate interest in swelling his list, and we sign letters and other documents which we have only hurriedly skimmed over in their final draft and in which our tired copyist may have embalmated an error fatal to our purpose.—Atlantic.

Differently Expressed.

The same idea may be expressed in many different ways, according as the speaker's mode of thought is influenced by his surroundings.

Take, for example, a well known adage and notice how the residents of several cities would put it:

"A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

In Boston this might become:

"One thought of Browning, thoroughly assimilated, is more valuable than two in a state of mental nebosity."

The New York version:

"Paper profits must be realized upon before they can add to one's bank account."

Translated into Chicagoese:

"One hog in the packing room and ready for market is better than two on the hoof at the point of production."

Now go as far west as Denver:

"It is the cashed chips that count."—Puck.

Persian Agriculture.

The great arid wastes of Persia would lead one to believe that the country does not produce sufficient grain to supply the needs of its population. Such, however, is not the case, and considerable quantities of grain are exported each year. The principal grains grown are wheat, barley and rice. Corn is planted in small quantities, but is used only for roasting ears. Oats and rye are seldom sown. Except along the Caspian coast, Persian agriculture is dependent almost entirely on irrigation. The agricultural implements used in Persia are of the most primitive kind. Plows are made from forks of small trees, with the addition of an iron share. It is stated to be doubtful, however, whether the yield of grain would be greatly increased by using modern plows, as there is no sod and this crude implement seems to stir the soil fairly well.

Wonders of the World.

Three groups of "wonders," each containing seven, are listed as seven wonders of the ancient world, seven wonders of the middle ages and seven wonders of the modern world. The first group comprises pyramids of Egypt, pharos of Egypt, hanging gardens of Babylon, temple of Diana at Ephesus, statue of Jupiter by Phidias, mausoleum of Artemisia, colossus of Rhodes. The second group comprises the coliseum of Rome, catacombs of Alexandria, Great wall of China, Stonehenge, leaning tower of Pisa, porcelain tower of Nanking, mosque of St. Sophia. The modern group comprises wireless, telephone, aeroplane, radium, antiseptics and antitoxins, spectrum analysis, X ray.

Mapmaking.

Mapmaking goes back to the earliest known time. It was a branch of the early picture writing practiced by savages. In Tahiti, for instance, the natives were able to make fairly good maps for the guidance of explorers. Maps with raised lines were in use in Peru before the conquest. The oldest known map is that of the Ethiopian gold mines, dating from the time of Sethos I., the father of Rameses II., long before the time of Aristagoras and his bronze tablet, on which were inscribed the circuit of the earth and all the seas and rivers then known.

Wanted Results.

A lady in a town in Scotland sent her servant over to the house of a sick neighbor. "Mrs. Smith," said she, "sent me over to see how your husband was this morning." "Very bad, indeed," the doctor says he may die any minute." was the reply. "Ah, weel," said the woman, "I'll better wait a wee while. I've nae fither thing tae dae the noo."

Easy.

Customer—You have a sign in your window. "A suit of clothes made while you wait." Do you really do that? Tailor—Yes, sir. You leave your order, with a deposit, and then go home and wait until the garments are finished.—London Telegraph.

An Opening.

"There goes the chap who broke the world's record for the hundred yard dash."

"I wonder if we could get him to come out to our suburb and coach us in sprinting for trains."—Pittsburgh Press.
